MAYORAL COLUMN

On behalf of the councillors and staff of Yarriambiack Shire I wish all readers a healthy and safe 2019.

Our council will hold its first formal meeting for the new year on Wednesday 23 January. This will allow us to review our current council plan and assess the actions required to meet targets for the next twelve months.

We congratulate Emma Kealy and Ali Cupper on their successful election campaigns that enabled them to become our representatives in the Legislative Assembly and look forward to working with them to realise our priorities. We also welcome the opportunity to meet with our ten Legislative Council MPs over the coming months. The issues we would love to discuss, and hopefully arrive at an achievable solution, are not just confined to our shire.

In 2018 we welcomed an additional $1 million in Local Roads to Market funding that enabled us to employ seven locals in six-month term positions to complete work. We hope that there will be continued investment in roads and rail that will assist our products reaching their markets.

We would hope that there will also be ongoing financial commitment from the state government in other areas that are vital for our residents. We would like to see additional money given to health services that will allow patients to receive treatment in their own community. We would welcome financial support that will enable local communities to continue to maintain recreational water and sporting facilities in their towns.

We will also be pressing for a commitment to provide the $16 million necessary to finish the educational precinct at Warracknabeal and $1 million to upgrade the science facilities at Hopetoun P-12.

On 26 January Australia Day celebrations are being conducted in ten of our towns. All begin at 8.00am for breakfast followed by presentations and a guest speaker. We only have seven councillors. We will spread ourselves out, but unfortunately some towns will still miss out. This year I will be attending the ceremony at Beulah to present the Shire's 2018 Citizen of the Year award.
